Conclusion

Article post is a piece of writing on a website with a front page with multiple links -- or content not displayed in reverse chronological order -- I would call an article. A “post” is a piece of writing on a blog, for example, Addressed to you which is delivered by a postal operator. There are different types of postal articles available. These include ordinary mail, registered mail, bulk mail, express mail etc.

As a conclusion, the proposed website will bring benefits to all users. Much of general knowledge can be helped for good communication technology. It aims to assist users in achieving their respective goals and objectives.

To people involved with this project:

First of all, Thanks teacher for taking your valuable time to teach us. We really appreciate your advice. You always try hard to teach us even though we studied online for this Covid-19 period. We all have learnt a lot from you. Sometimes you were blaming us during study time. But in fact we knew you wanted us to study hard and put afford or commitment during study time.

Thanks to all team work that puts high commitment, help each other, follow up, and especially collaborate. It is a good experience that we have been working as a team together. One more thing it is a good time to learn from mistakes, error, coding, and communication. Proud to be your team.
